FINCA RIDER

FINCA was organized in September 1984 as part of a community revolving funds program to develop a locally controlled system of rural community credit and self-help activities. In conjunction therewith two not-for-profit corporations were organized under local laws of their respective third world countries. Association Fomento Integral Campesina ("FINCA/Bolivia") operations to date have been funded per Implementation Letter 47 on June 25, 1985, executed between the Government of Bolivia, United States Agency for International Development (USAID) and Executive Secretariat of Plan 480 Title II and is awaiting final approval of its charter under the Bolivian Not-for-Profit Corporate Law. Fundacion Integral Campesina ("FINCA/Costa Rica") was organized on July 23, 1984, under Law 5488 of the Costa Rican Law of Corporations dated August 28, 1973.

Once fully operational, the United States FINCA ("FINCA/US") will solicit contributions from government organizations such as USAID, to be distributed directly to FINCA/Bolivia, FINCA/Costa Rica and subsequently created host country FINCA's, for development of agrarian programs in their respective countries that will facilitate the instruction of the rural poor to develop their own farm produce and arts and crafts for market sale. Funds collected from the public and corporate sectors will be held by FINCA/US to be subsequently distributed to FINCA/Bolivia, FINCA/Costa Rica, etc., for these same purposes. No funds will be disbursed by FINCA/US until it has received written proposals for their use from the host country FINCAS. Rural communities will be provided with five-year loans to be repaid in kind rather than in cash. The produce or crafts will then be marketed locally and monies received thereby will be put back into community revolving funds to be supervised by overseas FINCAS to continue to be used in the promotion of local self-help programs. (See attached graphs.)

Several other overseas FINCA's have been proposed to be formed in Colombia, Ecuador, El Salvador, Panama and Peru.

FINCA/US will also retain Rural Development Services ("RDS"), a recently organized corporation, to oversee operations in third world countries and provide technical assistance to overseas FINCAS in implementing their programs. In this way FINCA/US will be able to ensure that monies distributed will be utilized for charitable purposes.

Additionally, FINCA/US will require monthly reports from overseas FINCAS outlining the recipients of funds and the progress of the individual programs.

RDS, as agent for FINCA/Bolivia, has already received a grant for $1.2 Million from USAID to be utilized as outlined above.

FINCA/US expects to commence solicitation of funds in February 1985.
